Trend Micro's Venture Fund Doubles Award Money of Pitch-off Competition for the Most Innovative Startups at CES 2019 Venture arm, Trend Forward Capital, is looking to unlock the smart connected world

DALLAS--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Trend Micro Incorporated (TYO: 4704; TSE: 4704), a global leader in cybersecurity solutions, today announced a return to CES for its Trend Forward Capital fund, with a series of events designed to identify promising and hyper-growth technology startups.

Leading the way is the return of the popular Forward Thinker Award, which has doubled in size and will award a total of $60,000 to six start-ups. The $10,000 cash prize will be awarded to six chosen finalists.

"Exploring emerging technology marketing and learning from others are key to predicting needs of customers," said Eva Chen, founder and chief executive officer for Trend Micro. "What better way to celebrate our 30th anniversary than by finding and nurturing the tech innovators of tomorrow who will help us unlock value from the rapid global expansion in smart connectivity?"

Trend Forward Capital and its investor partners have carefully selected this year's 24 finalists based on the quality of their pitch decks and video introductions. They will compete in pitch-off competitions during CES, from Tuesday to Thursday at 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. The event is open to all CES attendees and located at Trend Forward Capital's CES booth at Sands Hall #41967.

This year's panel of judges will include investors from prominent global funds and Trend Micro Chief Executive Officer Eva Chen, Chief Financial Officer Mahendra Negi, Chief Legal Officer Felix Sterling and Cofounder/Chairman Steve Chang.

One of last year's winners is Humon, which builds clinically validated muscle oxygen trackers to optimize athletics performance. Trend Forward Capital was so impressed with the Humon's performance that within a month it had invested seed money to help drive future growth.

Alongside the pitch-off competition, Trend Forward Capital is inviting budding entrepreneurs to drop by its booth at Sands Halls #41967 for a startup tune-up session where entrepreneurs can receive friendly advice to improve their pitches.

Additionally, companies that have already been invested by Trend Forward Capital, such as Veem, Muse, Lief Therapeutic, Humon will also be present at the booth throughout the week to demo their solutions.
